CHAPTER I

OVERVIEW

A few introductory paragraphs describing the literature review. You will likely have many citations. Here is a book example [1].

Your introduction chapter should roughly include the following things:

- A background with a lot of citations
- A problem statement
- A list of objectives
- A dissertation outline

1.1 Section 1

Here is a citation of an article [2].

1.2 Section 2

A prediction of how you may be feeling right now can be referenced in Figure 1.

1.3 Section 3

Here is a conference proceeding [3].

Figure 1: A long description of this figure. It will appear in the text but not the LOF. You may be stressing now, but don't worry. You will do fine.

1.4 Problem Statement

Here is a paragraph describing the problem you are trying to solve.

1.5 Specific Aims

Here is a section where you outline what your aims are and how you intend to do them.

The objectives of this dissertation are as follows:

Objective 1: one-line explanation of objective. Paragraph explanation of objective.

Objective 2: one-line explanation of objective. Paragraph explanation of objective.

Objective 3: one-line explanation of objective. Paragraph explanation of objective.

1.6 Outline

This is where you describe the outline of the dissertation. This is an example

Part I addresses Objective 1 of this dissertation, where:

- Chapter 2: brief explanation

- Chapter 3: brief explanation

Part II concerns Objective 2:

- Chapter 4: brief explanation
- Chapter 5: brief explanation

Part III addresses Objective 3 of this dissertation, where:

- Chapter 6: brief explanation
- Chapter 7: brief explanation

The First Part

CHAPTER II
AN EXTREMELY LONG CHAPTER TITLE THAT GOES
ON TWO LINES IN THE TOC

This is a designated section before every chapter that you can use to explain the purpose of the "chapter" in simple terms, as in, you're trying to explain what you're doing to a family member.

CHAPTER VIII

CONCLUSION

8.1 Contributions

This is where you remind the reader that you completed all objectives. Maybe you cite something again here [1].

Objective 1: one-line explanation of objective

- Chapter II: Title A summary of this chapter.

Publication: Name of published paper, if it exists.

- Chapter III: Title A summary of this chapter.

Publication: Name of published paper, if it exists.

Objective 2: one-line explanation of objective

- Chapter IV: Title Summary of this chapter.

Intended Publication: Name of a paper that is currently a work-in-progress. In preparation.

- Chapter V: Title A summary of this chapter.

Objective 3: one-line explanation of objective

- Chapter VI: Title A summary of this chapter.
- Chapter VII: Title A summary of this chapter.

Publication: Name of a published paper.

8.2 Future Work

Describe what else can be done with this research.

You are done. Now you might feel like this, in Figure 2
